In accordance with the statutes of the State of Illinois and the regulations of the Illinois Department of Labor, the Warren-Newport Public Library District (WNPLD) annually adopts and files an ordinance that establishes the prevailing rates of wages. Certified copies of compliance are sent to the Illinois Secretary of State and Illinois Department of Labor. WNPLD will also publish the ordinance in a widely circulated local newspaper.

Commented [RL1]: A law was passed (I believe in 2018 since this policy was last reviewed) that did away with the requirement of local governments in Illinois to adopt and file a prevailing wage act ordinance. Really, there was no point to this activity as prevailing wage is already required by law, and this whole exercise only accomplished wasting our time and taxpayer dollars as we were required to publish the ordinance in the paper. Thus, I think we can eliminate this ordinance. I am in the process of checking with Roger Ritzman.
